

Transformation to Implement loop logic

Implementation of loop logic is only possible with Java transformation or calling Stored Procedure which effects performance. Instead why not have a transformation which can handle a loop logic, where the requirement is something like implementation of a SAS code.